Emergency First Aid and Stabilization Techniques

Lacerations (tears in the skin and underlying muscle), punctures and fractures comprise the vast majority of injuries in horses. A successful outcome for an injury requires prompt recognition of the injury and appropriate treatment even before a veterinarian arrives on the scene or a horse is transported to a hospital. To accomplish this, horse owners should be prepared for a variety of emergency situations.

With equine fractures in particular, each step of treatment, beginning immediately after injury (first aid and stabilization), is critical for improving the chances for a successful outcome. Without appropriate first aid and emergency splinting, the overall prognosis for survival can be poor. However, if emergency first aid is performed properly, the chances for a successful outcome can be increased, sometimes significantly so.

Initial Management of Horses with Fractures

With many fractures, damage continues to occur after the original injury due to lack of stabilization of the broken bone(s). Moreover, horses will constantly attempt to bear weight on an unstable limb. Consequently, the most important action an owner can take is to immediately immobilize the fracture site and protect the injury from contamination.

Attempt to keep the horse quiet and do not move it until the limb is adequately stabilized. If the horse is extremely distressed, it may be necessary to sedate it. If sedation is needed, use the lowest possible dose that provides the desired effect. Too much sedation could compromise coordination and reduce pain sensation, resulting in greater damage as the horse moves around. Pain relief may be provided with non steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs, but if the veterinarian is already on the way, it is better to wait.

If there is an open wound associated with the fracture injury, the wound should be immediately cleaned with water and bandaged to protect it from further contamination. Do not use disinfectant since some can cause tissue damage and complicate healing. Do not apply ointments or other topical medications before a veterinarian can assess the injury, because medications can impair evaluation and treatment.

If bleeding is excessive control it by putting direct pressure over the wound. Pressure bandages for controlling bleeding should be applied before splinting is attempted.

Stabilizing Fractures

Fractures that do not have a wound or opening can become open and contaminated if the horse flails about or moves excessively. This is why stabilization, using an appropriate splinting technique for the fracture location, should be attempted as soon as possible. Note that inappropriate first aid or stabilization measures can have devastating results by exacerbating skin, muscular and neurovascular trauma and destroying all potential for fracture healing.

Preparation is the key to being successful in any emergency situation. Having the necessary emergency supplies organized and easily obtainable will greatly increase the success of treatment for all orthopedic emergencies. Typical supplies needed for orthopedic injuries include bandage material, clean wound dressings, and splints made from common building materials such as boards, PVC pipe, electrical conduit and duct tape.

Transportation

If a veterinarian cannot come to your horse, it will be necessary to transport your horse to a veterinary hospital for appropriate diagnosis and treatment. Transportation is extremely stressful for horses with an unstable limb; even with an appropriate splinting device, they still must balance most of their weight on three legs. Anything that can be done to improve transportation of the fracture patient will increase the chances for a successful outcome.

In some areas, commercial horse ambulances equipped with slings or other stabilization devices designed to transport injured horses may be available. Check with your veterinarian to find out if this service is available in your area.

If you are using a regular horse trailer or van make sure that the horse is confined closely enough with partitions or with the use of straw bales to help the horse maintain its balance without using the injured leg during the transport. This will ensure that further injury does not occur.

Another good choice is a large slant-loading trailer with a low step, moveable partitions, and a ramp. Horses require a lot of room to load and unload but need a firm wall to lean on during transportation. Having a step trailer that is low to the ground or a trailer with a ramp will greatly facilitate loading and unloading the fracture patient.

Horses with either forelimb or hindlimb fractures should be loaded forward. However, when unloading, horses with forelimb fractures should be loaded backward, and horses with hindlimb

Horseshoes

Out west, you'll see horse shoes tacked on barns. Horseshoes turned up are known in folklore to bring good luck.

It's as if the cup of the horseshoe holds the luck.

Tuesday - Friday 9:30 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. Saturday 9:30 a.m. - 4 p.m. Closed Sunday and Monday fractures should be unloaded forward. With all of the position changes required for loading, transportation and unloading, it is easy to see that a large trailer with moveable partitions is necessary. Horse ambulance services are available in some locations.

Once loaded, horses with forelimb fractures should be positioned facing backward in the trailer. It is much easier for them to support their weight if there is a sudden stop. Similarly, horses with hindlimb fractures should be transported facing forward.

Decision-Making Before Definitive Treatment

Once the fracture patient has been temporarily stabilized, the next step is to consider the options for treatment to determine whether the horse is a candidate. The main factors that should be considered are:

- Patient Condition and temperament
- Location of fracture
- Patient size
- Open fracture grade
- Severity of the fracture
- Cost of treatment

In general, a small horse (500-700 lb) that has an excellent temperament and is in good condition with a closed, simple fracture of the distal (lower) limb has the best overall chance for survival. Large horses with highly fragmented open fractures of the proximal (upper) limb have poor prognoses for survival. Horses that have lost blood supply to the limb should be humanely destroyed.

Although there are many variables to consider for each patient, one of the main factors is cost. The cost for treatment can often exceed $25,000 in more complicated cases, so it is important to request an estimate for surgery and to discuss with a board-certified (American College of Veterinary Surgeons) veterinary surgeon the risks, potential complications, and success rate of the procedure before making your decision.

Long bone fracture repair in horses is extremely challenging and should only be attempted by an experience veterinary surgeon in an appropriately equipped facility. ACVS-certified veterinary surgeons have the advance training and experience to undertake these types of fracture repair.

Conclusions

Each step of treatment, beginning immediately after injury (first aid and stabilization), is critical for improving the chances for a successful outcome. Without appropriate first aid and emergency splinting, the overall prognosis for survival can be poor. However, if emergency first aid is performed properly, the chances for a successful outcome can be increased, sometimes significantly so. ❖

What To Do if Your Horse Sustains a Limb Fracture

- Keep the horse quiet and do not move it from the location it is in until the limb is adequately stabilized with an appropriate temporary splint.
- Provide pain relief with non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs only.
- If there is an open wound, clean it with water only and bandage it to protect it from further contamination.
- Control blood loss by applying direct pressure over the wound with bandages. Pressure bandages should be applied before splinting is attempted.
- For all fractures, stabilize as soon as possible using an appropriate splint based on the location of the fractures.
- Ask your veterinarian for a referral to a board-certified veterinary surgeon.

San Pasqual Stakes - Grade 2 Santa Anita Park - January 7, 2012

The purse $150,000 guaranteed. Fourteen nominated but only eight passed the entry box. Five were bred in Kentucky, one in Pennsylvania, one in California and Uh Oh Bango an Arizona-bred. Trained by Kory Owens, Uh Oh Bango listed earnings of $442,712, half the amount of favorite Tres Borrachos' $884,257. Tres Borrachos raced regularly in Grade 1 races contested at Churchill Downs, Del Mar and Santa Anita. Tres Borrachos raced up close, just a bit off the pace, while Mike Smith, Uh Oh Bango's rider placed Uh Oh Bango fourth off the pace. On the second turn he came three wide into the stretch, gained the advantage in upper stretch, inched away under left handed urging and proved to be the best. The Grade 2 race was a first for Uh Oh Bango and Triple AAA Ranch. The Arizona Thoroughbred industry wishes you many more. ♦

Hot on Top was consigned to the ATBA 2010 Sale, but did not reach her reserve. Following the sale Matt Keneley approached Molly Pearson and touted the wonderful traits this filly possessed.

Danny Avena, Molly Pearson and Brett Heide partnered and purchased Hot on Top privately from the breeder.

Her first start came in the spring, racing against the boys, but she was not to be denied she finished in front and headed straight to get her picture taken.

In the ATBA Spring Sale Stake she was second to the undefeated Page Springs. It was May and Hot on Top was still on the learning curve.

In the Fall Sale Stake trials, Hot on Top drew in the same heat as Page Springs and once again the Old Topper - Hot Getaway filly finished second. Then in the Fall Sale Stake main event it was another rerun, Page Springs first, Hot on Top second.

There were no trials for the fillies division of the Arizona Breeders Futurity. Molly Pearson couldn't have asked for Hot on Top to be training any better. The filly came into the paddock looking like a million dollars. Again she would be facing the undefeated Page Springs, who for the first time would be wearing blinkers.

On top of her game, the partnership filly took dead aim on the finish line and never lost her focus. When the race was over she was on top. Page Springs finished fourth, her first and only defeat in six starts.

You can find owner J. Lloyd Yother in the winners circle with Thoroughbreds & Quarter horses. He races both breeds and wins with both. Mr. Yother purchased A Political Time from the 2010 ATBA sale conigned by Few Acre Farm, Agent IV for $13,000.

Trainer Kevin Eikleberry took A Political Time to Canterbury with the rest of his stable. A Political time had three starts at Canterbury, scoring two fourths and a third. Returning to Turf Paradise the two-year-old had put all the pieces in place. In the ATBA Sale stake trials he finish second, then finished second by a nose in the main feature. Consistently moving forward with his learning and training A Political Time captured a four length victory in the trials prior to the Arizona Breeders Futurity. When the money was up and twelve other hopefuls entered the gate, A Political Time sprang from the gate and never looked back.

Lloyd Yother was in the winners circle, with a Thoroughbred once again. ❖

Tax Strategy for Horse and Livestock Owners

by John Alan Cohan, Attorney at Law

People in the livestock and horse industries are already hard pressed with IRS audits and difficult rules requiring the showing of the intention to make a profit despite ongoing losses. The IRS Commissioner has said the IRS is determined to be more aggressive going after Americans who do not file tax returns, overstate their deductions, or who fail to report their offshore accounts, as well as farmers and ranchers who exaggerate depreciation and other deductions.

There are do's and don't's which farmers, ranchers and horse owners should be aware of in complying with IRS regulations. The IRS is not looking for any higher standard of record keeping than ledgers, separate records of each animal, cost projections, and some form of a business plan. Business plans often can change, and these changes should be documented in your files.

People who are starting up in the horse or livestock business have the opportunity to create a clean slate by consulting with an expert and laying out their plans with proper documentation. People who are in the formative years of an activity hopefully can, with proper planning, attain an early sign of profits. Others, who are encouraged but still fail to make a profit, need special expert guidance, documentation and opinions of counsel in order to withstand IRS audits. IRS Regulations state that anyone who engages in horse breeding, selling or racing, or livestock ranching--- has the burden or proof if they fail to show two profit years in a seven-year period. (The standard is two in five for livestock.) However, some courts have held that the start up phase in a horse or livestock activity persists beyond seven-year period, even to ten and more years, provided the taxpayer has proper guidance and documentation to prove the intention to make a profit.

For people who are just starting, it's important to conduct extensive research of the horse or livestock industry and particular breeds prior to engaging in the activity. This helps show how you established your intention to be engaged in an activity for profit.

Quite often I have clients who expect to make a profit through the eventual sale of a principal animal or group of animals. This is a good point to document in your records. You should establish criteria to show how you expect to profit from an animal in the future, even though it is not presently profitable.

I am frequently asked whether it is advisable for an ongoing farm or ranch activity to be operated as a corporation or an LLC (limited liability company) entity. The answer depends on the individual situation. Operating a business under a corporate entity is clearly more businesslike than a sole proprietorship, and can help show your overall business intentions. It is necessary to keep a Minute Book, pay a corporate filing fee, and incur other expenses when operating as a corporation or LLC entity.

Perhaps the most critical event with any horse or livestock operation is an IRS audit. Keep in mind that the issue in an audit will be first to substantiate expenses, and second to prove the intention to be engaged in an activity for profit. If you are assessed a deficiency after an audit, the IRS will want you to sign a letter "agreeing" to the assessment. Or, you can request to have an appeal within the IRS bureaucracy or take the case to U.S. Tax Court. At that point it is helpful to have legal representation to insure your case is presented in the best possible light. Most cases in IRS Appeals or U.S. Tax Court can be settled if the taxpayer has good evidence to support the argument that the activity is engaged in for profit despite a history of losses.

Peggy Hopwood’s brother passed away unexpectedly. Peggy spent the Christmas holidays in Arkansas attending to his affairs. We are sorry for your loss.

Saturday, January 7, 2012, was a great race day for Arizona and Triple AAA Ranch. Two Arizona-breds captured the attention of the racing world!

Richard Owens won the Grade 2, San Pasqual Stakes with Uh Oh Bango but also watched Ez Effort (a full brother to Ez Dreamer standing at Triple AAA Ranch) run a brilliant race at Santa Anita Park. Ez Effort a first time starter, broke a bit slow from the gate, but performed like a seasoned older horse. He was eighth by eight lengths at the quarter and looked like he didn’t have a chance. Ez Effort worked his way outside a rival, then waited behind horses, came out three wide on the turn, split horses and finished with a rush to finish second in a maiden special weight for three year-olds. Ez Effort (In Excess -French Debutante) was beaten three-quarters of a length.

A young horse with great potential is never overlooked. EZ Effort has been sold and is now training in Florida.

Jockey agent Red Davis, passed away February 22, after a courageous fight against cancer. Davis was agent for Michael Ybarra, Mike Ziegler and Vincent Bednar.

Rillito reported a successful opening week-end. The grandstands were packed and fields were full. Several Turf Paradise horses, trainers and jockey’s participated.

Beth Davis was rushed to the hospital on Monday, February 13th for a slight stroke. Mrs. Davis is a teller at Turf Paradise and became ill shortly after arriving at work. Beth Davis is security guard Jodi Davis’ mother. Beth is back at work and doing well.

Dorothee Kieckhefer and Ron Allen have resigned from the ATBA Board of Directors. Jan Osborn has replaced Dorothee Kieckhefer and Dennis Grenier replaced Ron Allen.

Arizona-bred Jamaican Memories was claimed for $20,000 by trainer David Van Winkle for Carol & James Bolin. Jamaican Memories won the 2011 Arizona Breeders Futurity. Bred in Arizona by H & E Ranch, the colt was consigned to the ATBA 2009 Sale and sold to Chad Calvert for $13,000.

Arizona Stallion Standings

Statistics compiled by Bloodstock Research Information Services, Inc., and cover North American racing only. While every effort is made to prevent errors and omissions, Arizona Thoroughbred can not guarantee their complete and total accuracy. Included are sires based in the state of Arizona. Deceased, retired or relocated sires will remain in the rankings until after their last Arizona sired runners have raced as two-year olds.

Statistics include racing through February 20, 2012
